

Terms of Agreement

By proceeding to checkout, customers agree to and acknowledge the following when purchasing or perusing plays, skits, or musicals from Plays in Days:

- Preview copies (Perusal e-Scripts) once downloaded, will be used only to select a play, skit, or musical for production and will not be copied or used for production purposes.
- Purchaser has permission for their theater group, school, church, youth group, or other production company or performing entity to produce as many performances as desired, royalty free, but this permission is limited to the purchaser of these materials. Scripts and production materials will not be shared outside of the theater group, school, church, youth group, or other production company or performing entity other than that for which this purchase was made.
- Digital or paper copies may be shared/made in any amount necessary for purchaser's production at no extra charge, but this permission is limited to the purchaser of these materials. Digital or paper copies of the scripts and production materials will not be shared outside of the theater group, school, church, youth group, or other production company or performing entity other than that for which this purchase was made.
- The names of the authors of each play, skit, or musical (found on the title page of each script) will be included in any programs, photographs or videos posted online or otherwise, and in any advertising for each production, whether they be printed or digital format.
- The wording, "Originally a Plays in Days Production" will be included in any programs, photographs or videos posted online or otherwise, and in any advertising for each production, whether they be printed or digital format.
- The URL (website address) for Plays in Days, namely, www.playsindays.com will be included in any programs, photographs or videos posted online or otherwise, and in any advertising for each production, whether they be printed or digital format.
